Welcome to MLA 2022 Annual Conference!

RYAN WIEBER

Well, it's about time! Three years is a long time between in-person conferences. Welcome back to the Michigan Library Association Annual Conference, live and in person in beautiful Port Huron. "Bridging the Divide" is quite the appropriate theme for this year's gathering, considering the divides we see every day in multiple ways, the divide in time and circumstance since we last met, and the obvious fact of Port Huron being home to the cool Blue Water Bridge.

The conference workgroup has crafted an outstanding lineup of topics that are relevant to things we are facing today. Sessions highlighting the experience and creativity of presenters will inspire us to bring ideas back home that could improve how we reach and serve others. I am looking forward to our keynotes: retired Nashville Public Librarian Kent Oliver on intellectual freedom; Nolan Finley and Stephen Henderson and the Great Lakes Civility Project (yes, please); and library marketing expert Angela Hursh – all designed to deliver perspective, advice, and inspiration to build us upward.

Take it easy and let this year's conference work for you: take advantage of opportunities to meet or reconnect with colleagues from across the state, sharing and comparing what you know, or just plain ol' checking in on long lost pre-COVID friends. Hallways and exhibit halls are perfect for that, and events like the Spelling Bee Lunch, Trivia Party, and the Michigan Library Awards are meant for getting to know fellow library professionals better. A big thank you to MLA staff, the conference workgroup, exhibitors and sponsors, volunteers, and all of YOU for making MLA 2022 Annual Conference happen!

Ryan Wieber

President, Michigan Library Association
Kalamazoo Public Library

SCOTT DUIMSTRA

Welcome to the 2022 Michigan Library Association Annual Conference. Along with seeing your fellow library workers from around Michigan, the Annual Conference Workgroup planned an exceptional lineup of keynote speakers, breakout sessions, and special events around the theme of "Bridging the Divide". That bridging can mean many things when applied to library services. Speakers and sessions will address the divide among intellectual freedom, the digital divide, and even cultural divisions in our communities. At this conference, you'll learn how to bridge those divisions along with learning practical skills that you can take back to your library and your community.

There's also some fun to be had as well. Please join us for the Michigan Library Awards on Wednesday evening and the Spelling Bee Lunch on Thursday followed by a Trivia Party on Thursday evening. On behalf of the Michigan Library Association, we are delighted to see you again in person and hope that you have an informative, educational, and fun conference.

Opening Keynote with The Civility Project – Bridging the Divide: Civility in a Time of Unrest

1:00 - 2:30 PM | Lake Huron A

NOLAN FINLEY

STEPHEN HENDERSON

Celebrated journalists Nolan Finley and Stephen Henderson have been longtime friends, despite their different perspectives on pretty much everything. The one thing they agree on is the importance of their friendship – which includes a healthy dose of disagreement and mutual respect.

“It never occurred to us that we couldn’t be friends because we disagree,” says Nolan. “We’ve never avoided conversation, we never pulled punches, we sort of enjoyed the mix-up.” Americans used to engage in civil conversation with people of opposing viewpoints – enjoying the banter and debate. Today, many Americans believe they can’t be friends with people whose politics are different. The Civility Project seeks to bring people of opposing viewpoints together for healthy disagreement, personal interactions and constructive conversations. “If we reach the point where we dehumanize the people we disagree with, anything is possible,” Stephen says. “We must step back and learn to talk to people as people, rather than political adversaries.”

Morning Keynote with Angela Hursh – How Will They Know? Make Sure Your Library’s Efforts to Bridge the Divide Get Noticed!

The work that your library does to make information, services, and technology accessible to everyone is extraordinary. But all that work is for naught if your community doesn't know they can take advantage of it! This talk is packed with practical tips to successfully promote your library's collection, services, and programs, even when you face staff and budget shortfalls. You'll learn how to maximize digital platforms and reach community members who don't have (or don't want) internet access. And you'll leave with a plan to work smarter by putting your time and available resources to the best use.
