Dear Friends,

Welcome to the MLA 2006 Annual Conference — ‘There’s no place like a library’!

The 2006 conference committee has been hard at work for several months planning a conference that highlights what’s great about Detroit and incorporates a fresh approach to some MLA standard conference events. You’ll be challenged, enlightened, enriched, and maybe even amused!

What a great opportunity this is going to be to examine how our libraries represent a “place” in our society. Omar Wasow, keynote speaker for Wednesday’s opening session, will be sharing insights on today’s technologies and how libraries can be woven into the fabric of life for future generations of library users. Various program sessions will touch on the ‘library as place’ theme, including sessions on workplace safety, libraries as colorful and exciting community centers, curriculum collections in Michigan colleges and universities, becoming a published author and finding inspiration for creating children’s books, “green” design for library buildings, and much, much more.

New this year are programs organized into tracks to make it easier for you to focus on programs in a specific area of interest. Tracks include Access, Advocacy, Collections, Leadership and management, Marketing/Public relations/Fundraising, Patron service, Technology, and ‘Library as place’. Although MLA’s divisions, roundtables and committees are contributing their usual high quality program sessions, a total of 17 of this year’s programs were scheduled through a “call for presentations” to provide library colleagues an opportunity to share their knowledge and expertise.

The Special Events committee has planned an outstanding array of activities designed to highlight Detroit area libraries and attractions, including an pre-conference tour of the Motown Historical Museum followed by a reception at the beautiful Southfield Public Library, the all-conference reception showcasing the Skillman Branch of the Detroit Public Library, and a fun and relaxing Thursday evening auction party with foods representing Detroit’s diverse culture and MLA’s fabulous live and silent auctions.

Then be sure to stay with us for Friday’s final general session featuring Bill Barnes, Gene Ambaum, and ‘A funny thing happened on the way to the library’!

All this plus generous amounts of “no conflict” time in the exhibits, poster sessions, the Internet Café, traditional luncheons and plenty of time to network with colleagues and make new friends.

I’m so glad you’re here!

Leah Black, President
Welcome to the 2006 Annual Conference

This year’s conference theme, There’s No Place Like a Library, builds on a grass-roots discussion in the library community of libraries as a unique place in any community. The theme is one we should build into our vocabulary when we are marketing libraries and converting people to become library advocates.

Consider academic libraries. Many now offer 24/7 service. Many have coffee shops for networking and socializing. And all offer a rich array of services, not least of which is the growing demand for information resources through computers, online databases and other technological vehicles. Academic libraries are on the cutting-edge of information and provide a place on campus where students can convene, learn and grow.

Consider public libraries. Public libraries have always served as community centers and destination points. Michigan residents tell us that they are vital to the quality of life, downtown economic development and tourism. They provide forums for public discourse and debate through book clubs and speaker series where people from different walks of life can meet, discuss and learn about wide-ranging topics from fiction, to healthcare, social security and workforce development. They provide opportunities for children to read, learn and grow. It is staggering to consider that more people visit libraries each week than museums and zoos combined.

But what good does it do us if we, in the library community know the value of libraries as place, but don’t educate others and get the word out? If our provosts, lobbyists, city managers and city council members don’t value what we deliver how will we convince the Legislature?

If we are going to be successful advocates for libraries, we must do a better job of educating our current and potential customers (yes, customers — not just patrons but legislators, administrators, the media, nonusers) about the value of libraries and how we’ve changed and grown to serve our communities and our customers. We must do a better overall job of collecting data on our customers and how they are using the services we provide and how we are benefiting our communities and institutions.

We have a great story to tell, and this year’s conference is just the beginning.

I extend a special thank you to the entire Annual Conference planning committee, subcommittees, and countless volunteers who participated in making this conference possible. Your enthusiasm, commitment to your profession, and involvement in the Michigan Library Association is valued and appreciated. Thanks also to all the Detroit area libraries who lent considerable support and creativity to the conference. And, thank you to our sponsors, exhibitors and partners for their support and participation.

Gretchen Couraud, CAE, CFRE
Welcome to Detroit

October 10, 2006

Dear Friends:

On behalf of the citizens of Detroit, it gives me great pleasure to extend greetings to everyone attending the Michigan Library Association Conference.

This year’s theme “There’s no place like a library!” spreads the message of how important our libraries are to our communities. There is absolutely no place like a library, to promote reading in adults and raise our community youth’s interest in reading books. It is within our libraries that we are able to tie together historical facts, and present news to develop ideas for the future.

I applaud the Michigan Library Association on its efforts to promote literacy. Your commitment to this great cause will enhance our communities’ statewide. Again, welcome to the Michigan Library Association Conference, please accept my best wishes for a successful event and continued success.

Sincerely,

Kwame M. Kilpatrick

There's no place like a LIBRARY
Librarian of the Year: Bettina Meyer from the Western Michigan University Libraries is known for her ability to blend traditional roles with forward thinking; for focusing on the end user and for embracing new technologies to enhance accessibility. She has been a driving force behind advances in distance education, consortia purchasing, and library cooperation in Michigan and beyond. As one of her supporters stated, “Bettina is a standout among her peers. Our library has benefited from Bettina’s local activism, and we value her as a role model and professional neighbor. Her many professional involvements include MLA, MLC, OCLC, ALA, and being one of the founding members of the Collection Development committee of the Michigan Council of Library Deans and Directors.

Award of Excellence: Wen-ying Lu from the Michigan State University Libraries has distinguished herself in the world of serial cataloging and was instrumental in MSU attaining CONSER associate status. Lu has been an active participant in MLA Access, Collections, and Technical Services Roundtable, as well as in national organizations such as IUG and NASIG. “Lu defines excellence in serial librarianship. She is bright, gregarious, tireless, and exceptionally cooperative, a joy to work with, and thoroughly deserving of the MLA Award of Excellence,” wrote Leah Black in her nomination letter for this exceptional librarian.

Loleta D. Fyan Award: Mary Davis from the Yankee Clipper Branch of the Grand Rapids Public Library system is recognized by her fellow librarians and patrons as an advocate for her community and for the excellence she brings to her collections and programs. Mary embodies the Fyan Award in the way she has transformed youth services in her branch library to be not only welcoming for young children but a destination for local teens. “The exceptional thing about her programs is that they are often the bellwether program for our system; Mary tries them, tweaks them, and the other librarians then offer them,” stated Kayne Ferrier in recommending Mary for this award.

Trustee of Merit: Barbara Glover has been a dedicated and hard-working trustee for the Northville District Library and for the Library Network for over 10 years. “She has played a pivotal part in the conception, establishment, development and growth of the Northville District Library,” according to Julie Herrin, Northville library director. Barbara has been active in several roles at MLA and was invaluable in the Trustees and Advocates Roundtable’s transition to an MLA division. Barbara’s fellow trustees and colleagues have always found her to be “ahead of the game” in understanding technology and services and able to anticipate the public’s expectations of libraries.

Walter H. Kaiser Award: Gail Smith exemplifies the description of the Kaiser Award in that her energy and ideas have contributed to the improvement of not only her local library, Rawson Memorial Library, but also of neighboring libraries. Her work with the Friends of the Library has resulted in new and innovative programs that have drawn people to the library and to the greater community. Gail has been involved with such fundraisers as “The Annual Great Antique Hunt” and the “Ravenous Readers Book Club.” Time and again Gail Smith has been a champion for libraries.

Michigan Author Award: Steve Hamilton will accept the Michigan Author Award at the luncheon for his series of mystery novels, set in the small town of Paradise, Mich. “A Cold Day in Paradise,” Hamilton’s first novel, won the Private Eye Writers of America/St. Martin’s Press Award for Best First Mystery by an Unpublished Writer. The book was also awarded the prestigious Edgar Allan Poe Award and was a USA Today Bestseller. Hamilton, a Michigan native and University of Michigan alumnus, now lives in New York’s Hudson Valley with his wife and two children. He currently is employed at IBM, but continues to write. His seventh book, “A Stolen Season,” was released Sept. 5. Although Hamilton resides in New York, his novels still revolve around Michigan locales. “No matter where I live now, no matter where I go, I’m still a Michigan boy at heart,” Hamilton declared. The Michigan Author Award seeks to recognize a Michigan writer for his or her literary merit. The honor is awarded annually.
Keynote Speakers

Omar Wasow
Wednesday, October 11
Room: Ambassador 3
“Today’s Technologies: Library of the Next Generation”
9:00 - 10:30 am

Omar Wasow is pursuing a doctorate in African American studies and political science at Harvard. In addition to his graduate work, Omar is the co-founder and ongoing strategic advisor to BlackPlanet.com and an on-air technology analyst. Under Omar’s leadership BlackPlanet.com became the leading site for African Americans, reaching over three million people a month. Omar also works to demystify technology issues through regular TV and radio segments on NBC's Today Show and public radio’s Travis Smiley Show.

Bill Barnes & Gene Ambaum of Unshelved
Friday, October 13
Room: Ambassador 3
“A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Library”
10:30 - 11:30 am

Bill is a native New Yorker who was dragged all around the world by his parents at a very formative age and finally ended up in the wilds of Seattle. He is a trained software designer and very much an untrained cartoonist.

Gene is the pen name of a public librarian from the Seattle area. He loves graphic novels, television shows from his childhood, pina coladas, and getting caught in the rain. He continues to make the mistake of letting Bill write his bios.

Pre-conference and Special Events

Pre-Conference Sessions
Continental Breakfast, 7:30 a.m. – 8:00 a.m.
Lunch is not included with these pre conference sessions.
You will receive an informational flyer which lists a wide variety of restaurant options (and prices) within the Renaissance Center.

Morning Sessions: 8:00-11:30 a.m.

Helping Students “Get It:”
Designing Effective Library Instruction and Assessment for Generation Y
Room: Duluth A/B
Dr. Jennifer P. Cochran, Director, MA in Education, Central Michigan University
Sponsored by: Central Michigan University Libraries
What does it mean to be a “Gen Y,” “Millennial,” or “Net Gen” student in today’s library and college settings? What does it mean for librarians? This pre-conference program is designed to heighten awareness and understanding of today’s college students as library users, of what they bring to the instructional event, and what other factors influence instructional planning. The session will focus on applying that knowledge to the design and delivery of instruction in a library setting and on ways to assess the effectiveness of that instruction.

Preparing, Protecting: Disaster Planning for Your Library
Room: Joliet A/B
Carol Fink, Rare Book Librarian, Library of Michigan
Don’t wait until disaster strikes! Through this pre-conference program, participants will gain knowledge of what is needed to be prepared for disaster recovery and understand what is necessary for a working disaster plan. Participants will also learn where to find resources for supplies and experts for disaster recovery efforts.

Afternoon Sessions: 12:30 - 4:00 p.m.

Prepare, Practice, Present: How to Feel at Ease While Presenting Your Expertise
Room: Duluth A/B
April Callis, Springboard Consulting
Do you cringe when you are asked to give a presentation? Do you wait until the last minute because you aren’t sure where or how to begin? This half-day session provides interactive activities and exercises to help you prepare and deliver professional presentations. You will learn to establish credibility with your audience, maximize audience attention and retention, encourage participation, use humor and illustrations in your presentation, and your presentation with control, and leave a lasting impression. You will benefit by gaining confidence and conquering “stage fright” or anxiety, improving your professional image and speaking style, and increasing your confidence, comfort, and control when presenting to any audience. This session will also feature group activities and group feedback.

Slow Down and Beat Stress
Room: Joliet A/B
Lew Dotterer, Ph.D., Director of Learning and Organizational Development, Sparrow Health System and private consultant for Lew Dotter Consulting
In today’s world of “hurry up” and “I don’t have time,” people are experiencing more stress. People are feeling like they are in a “rat race” in the office and at home. Even if you win this race, you are still a rat! There has to be a better solution. In this session, we will look at how to “slow down” and accomplish more. We will look at how to build relationships through listening and asking questions. We will also focus on living in the “present” and getting done with the past. Techniques will be discussed, practiced, and applied to real situations presented by class participants. We will discuss situations, look at alternatives, and have some fun along the way!

The Motown sound is Detroit’s sound. The Motown Historical Museum, founded in 1985 by Esther Gordy Edwards, traces the roots of Motown’s remarkable story and chronicles its impact on 20th century popular culture and musical styles. The Museum tells the story of Motown, beginning with Berry Gordy, Jr. and a small house in Detroit that he christened, “Hitsville USA”, and evolving into a major entertainment enterprise that was among the most diverse and influential in the world. Exhibits include collections of historical photographs, artwork, music, costumes and the original recording studio. Museum is located at 2648 West Grand Boulevard, Detroit. Web address: www.motownmuseum.com.

Tours will be provided for the MLA members.
Welcome to Detroit Kick-Off Reception at Southfield Public Library
(Pre registration required)
Tuesday, October 10, 2006
6:00pm-8:00pm
Sponsored by: Flagstar Bank, Clark Hill, Southfield Public Library & Huntington Woods Public Library Friends Group

The spectacular Southfield Public Library was dedicated in June 2003. The ideas of dynamism, discovery and exploration are an integral part of the interior and exterior design. This living monument to the creative endeavor taking place within its walls features a Floating Boardroom, three story glass tower, fireplaces on every level, Imaginarium Garden, Readers’ Tree House, Southfield History Room, two computer training labs, group meeting rooms, Café, Fountain Terrace, Friends Used Book Store, and permanent and traveling art collections and much more. The Library is located at 26300 Evergreen Road in Southfield, Michigan.

Enjoy a “taste of Detroit” with specialties such as Greek Salad, Coney Islands, and Sanders Sundaes. Southfield Public Library staff will be stationed to answer questions and to provide tours of areas such as the space room, readers’ garden, floating board room — and, don’t miss the Pewabic tile fireplaces.

Buses leave Southfield Public Library at 7:30, 8:00, and 8:30 pm to return to the hotel.

The Marketing and Public Relations Roundtable is pleased to announce and congratulate the 23rd Annual Best in Show Award Recipients for 2006.

Room: Duluth A/B
Wednesday, October 11, 2006
7:30 a.m. - 8:30 a.m.
Co-sponsored by Oakland Community College Libraries and the University of Michigan/Dearborn, Mardigan Library
A great way to start the Library School Student Day at conference! The majority of people who are involved in MLA and regularly attend conference are mid-career or are nearing retirement. It is vital for the profession and the association for students and entry-level librarians to begin to participate in the association and to build their colleague network. MLA is making a special effort to welcome students to the conference and to instill in students a willingness to get involved in their professional association.

Celebrate our own! The luncheon is held to recognize our colleagues or library advocates for their outstanding contributions to the Michigan library community. Those recognized are the best of the best: they are the Librarian of the Year recognized for an outstanding contribution to effective and improved library service; the Walter Kaiser winner for contributing an idea, procedure, concept or adaptation which results in the improvement of a library or libraries; Loleta D. Fyan winner to a librarian who has transformed a routine task or untried idea into an imaginative, creative service, Trustee of Merit is given to focus attention on and give recognition to an outstanding Trustee’s contributions to Michigan library service; and the Award of Excellence recognizes a staff member of a Michigan library who has made an outstanding contribution to effective and improved local library service and who assists and promotes libraries in all aspects of his or her work.

Celebrate Detroit All Conference Reception at the Skillman Branch Library of the Detroit Public Library
Wednesday, October 11, 2006
Reception from 6:00 p.m. - 8:00 p.m.
Co-Sponsored by the Detroit Public Library Friends Foundation and the Wayne State University Library System
The newly renovated Rose and Robert Skillman Branch Library is the home to the National Automotive History Collection, the nation’s largest public automotive industry archive for writers, journalists, collectors and the general public. The Collection has over one million items, from books to letters, engineering documents to photos and service manuals. An 8’ x 77’ mural of Detroit’s Renaissance overlooks the NAHC Reading Room, completed in 1981 by artist Robin Harber, the illustrations depict the history of Detroit.

The building offers 70,000 square feet of public space, with Rose Auditorium having a capacity of 150-200 guests for downtown events, lectures and book signings. The Branch features a children’s library with 12,000 volumes, PC stations, regularly scheduled children’s programming, and 36 permanent children’s seating stations. The adult reading room has 30 permanent seating stations, 15,000 volumes of material from fiction to non-fiction, reference to “DPL Best Sellers,” the most popular books of the month.

The original building opened to the public on January 4, 1932 and closed on March 2, 1998 to prepare for the demolition of the adjacent Hudson Department Store building. The books, collections, and equipment were relocated to an alternate library locations continue access and service to the public. The Skillman Foundation awarded $5 million to fully restore this branch, the largest single gift ever presented to The Detroit Public Library. Skillman Foundation President, Kari Schlachtenhaufen stated, “To give this renewed facility back to the City at this time will only add to the momentum demonstrated by the vitality and development completely surrounding this historic corner.”

The Rose Auditorium will host an Automotive Art exhibit during MLA and tours will be available of the National Automotive History Collection on the second floor of the Skillman Branch Library.

Led by Barbara Martin, archivist in the Detroit Public Library Music and Performing Arts Department’s E. Azalia Hackley Collection, the Library Ladies vocal group, will provide strolling music. A harpist and the David Flannigan jazz/pop combo will provide background music on the multi-floor building.

A Fall Festival strolling stations affair will feature food such as smoked turkey lowash rolled flat bread with roasted bell pepper, romaine lettuce and provolone cheese; grilled vegetable pesto on European grain bataire bread; beef and cheddar on a mini bun; chicken Santa Fe rolled in flour tortilla phyllo cup; Buffalo chicken wings, Swedish style cocktail meatballs, fresh seasonal fruit platter; assorted cheeses, cracker baskets, and breads; and, of course, a pastry station including cream puffs, eclairs, cannoli, tartlettes, and freshly baked cookies.

“Taste of Detroit” Party and “Lions and Tigers and Bears, oh MI!” Annual Silent and Live Auction and Party
Room: Ambassador Foyer and Ambassador 1
Thursday, October 12, 2006
5:00 p.m. – 10:00 p.m.
Sponsored by Thomson Gale
A silent auction, a live auction, a time for conversation with colleagues -- weaved throughout the evening will be music provided by DJ, Daniel Levin, music you can dance to or just sit back and listen to. So, a night of spending money on the auction, enjoying colleagues, and having fun is planned.

In keeping with the Conference theme ‘There’s no place like a library,’ this year’s auction will feature another Wizard of Oz-like theme - “Lions and Tigers and Bears, oh MI!” We’re looking to have some sports-based prizes as well as a number of other nice weekend getaways and golf vacations. In addition, the call has gone out for a special set of baskets, with the theme ‘There’s no place like (my community).’ These baskets may include a poster which tells about their location and why the baskets represent their community. Several libraries, both public and academic, have indicated they will contribute.

In addition, there will be a game which takes place over the course of the evening. The poor old Wizard of Oz has been killed. Everyone will receive a clue, and may try to figure out who did the old man in. Your assistance will be necessary! If folks play their cards right, we may even get a confession from the guilty party!

This evening’s venue provides another opportunity to celebrate the multiculturalism of the Detroit region through the food that will be available. Whether you enjoy sauerbraten and German potato salad, Italian Minestrone soup and Caesar salad, Greek Spanakopita and chicken kabobs, or Mexican fajitas, it will all be topped off with great assorted French pastries.

Program Descriptions

Wednesday, October 11

Registration: 7 a.m. – 5 p.m., Ontario Foyer
Internet Café: 8:30 a.m. – 5:30 p.m., Ontario Foyer
Exhibits: 10:45 a.m. – 6 p.m., Ontario

W-01
Room: Brule B
TIME: Wednesday, October 11, 2-3:15 p.m.
TRACK: Access
SPONSORING UNIT: Access, Collections & Technical Services Roundtable
SPONSORED BY: Michigan Library Consortium
TITLE: Technical Services Open Forum
SPONSERED BY: NONE

PROGRAM: The program provides a forum for discussion of issues relating to technical services and how they are affected by technology and greater interdependency among library departments. The ACTS Roundtable Board members will facilitate discussion of questions and topics in which the ACTS members are interested. The topics may include but are not limited to the following: monograph acquisitions (print and electronic), serials acquisitions (electronic and print), e-books and MARC records for e-books, MARC records for e-journals, authority control, disaster preparedness, planning for system downtime, serials check-in and binding, shifting journal subscriptions from print to electronic format.

W-02
Room: Duluth A/B
TIME: Wednesday, October 11, 2-3:15 p.m.
TRACK: Advocacy
SPONSORING UNIT: Trustees and Advocates Division
SPONSORED BY: Karoub Associates
TITLE: Ask the Lawyer
SPEAKER: Anne Seurynck, Attorney, Foster, Swift, Collins & Smith

PROGRAM: Any organization interested in delivering good service and quality goods needs competent employees. Good employees need training, good role models and plenty of coaching in order to get the job done. Learn some lessons from the Old West on how to coach staff so they deliver the kind of performance you want. This workshop develops a supervisor’s skill at being a coach so that desirable employee behaviors are recognized and rewarded and poor employee behaviors are reduced.

W-03
Room: Cadillac A
TIME: Wednesday, October 11, 2-3:15 p.m.
TRACK: Collections
SPONSORING UNIT: Library of Michigan/Archives of Michigan
SPONSORED BY: Sage Publications
TITLE: Preservation Administration for Archives and Libraries
SPEAKERS: Carol Fink, Rare Books and Preservation Librarian, Library of Michigan; and Mike Harvey, State Archivist, Archives of Michigan.

PROGRAM: Building a collection of archival or library materials involves more than the cost of acquiring the materials and processing them. Preserving those items for future generations to use is considered a necessary component of a comprehensive archive or library program. The speakers will present an overview of collections care, handling, and longevity to those interested in establishing a preservation program. They will review strategies such as proper environmental control, conservation, appropriate duplication methods and disaster preparedness, among other issues. The focus will be on paper and photographic collections, though questions or concerns about non-paper collections are welcome.

PROGRAM: You already know how hard being a youth librarian is - but are you ready to be a manager? The answer is yes! Learn from a panel of former youth librarians who have made the leap to management - they will share advice, experiences, challenges and successes.

W-06
Room: Brule A
TIME: Wednesday, October 11, 2-3:15 p.m.
TRACK: Marketing/Public Relations/Fundraising
SPONSORED UNIT: Marketing and Public Relations Roundtable
TITLE: Branding 101 for Libraries
SPEAKER: Christina Pattyn, Vice President of Marketing, Pangborn Design

PROGRAM: Christina Pattyn has more than 19 years of experience managing marketing and design strategies for a Fortune 500 clientele. During her tenure with Pangborn Design, she has successfully worked with many global corporations on a number of endeavors, including branding, consumer marketing, annual reports, internal communications and packaging. Her clients include the Procter & Gamble Company, Blue Cross Blue Shield of Michigan, Detroit Science Center and Pfizer. She also worked on projects for library systems which include the Detroit Public Library, Genesee District Library and Capital Area Library District.

PROGRAM: This session will discuss the basics of developing a brand for your library and why that’s important. Topics covered will include: defining branding, building, renewing and sustaining your brand; how you can use branding to strengthen your library system; making (the five) sense out of branding; must design principles to manage your brand; use of a branding checklist before starting any project; and branding successes and mistakes.

TITLE: Customer Service in Preventing Workplace Violence (Part 1)
SPONSER: Dr. Isaiah McKinnon, former Chief of Police for the City of Detroit; Associate Professor at the University of Detroit-Mercy
PROGRAM: From his growing-up years in the austere world of Detroit's Brewster Projects, to his outstanding tenure as that city's long-serving Chief of Police, "Ike" McKinnon draws upon his often hard-nosed life experiences with an effervescent mix of humor and optimism, to teach others how to unlock the hidden potential and unwavering resilience that lie deep within each of us. His two-hour presentation imparts the message that good customer service in libraries is very important and is just as important as the manner in which we handle ourselves in the presence of all people, like co-workers and the public we serve, to prevent workplace violence. After the presentation, there will be a book signing. "In the Line of Duty" and "North Between the Houses" are just a couple of the books he's written.

SPONSER: Shutta Crum is an award-winning writer of books for children and poetry for adults, as well as a storyteller and a retired youth librarian who was awarded the Michigan Library Association's Award of Merit in 2002.
PROGRAM: Noted children's book writer, Shutta Crum, will highlight points of interest along the difficult, but often hilarious, route out of "Slushville" and into print. Shutta has worked with seven editors at five publishing houses and is the perfect guide for eye-opening detours through a writer's everyday countryside that covers working with agents, the "Oh, gee! Not again!" revision process, working with editors, working with illustrators, getting reviewed, marketing, and finding the perfect fan. Uncover the secret world of the books we loan to our patrons: discover how a book makes it to market, and what writers for young readers are up against today. And for those attendees interested in someday journeying down that road, directions (handouts) will be supplied.

TITLE: RSS Toolkit for ‘Casting’ Hot Content From Your Library
SPEAKER: Michael Samson, Public Services Librarian, Wayne State University Law School Library
PROGRAM: Using RSS feeds (XML technology) to aggregate (receive) and syndicate (distribute) news, podcasts, and videocasts is one of the hottest new ways libraries can capitalize on the Web 2.0 for promoting their resources and services. Informing patrons in real-time about premium level content and indispensable information that can be found on the Internet is quite easy once you start using the RSS toolkit. Librarians and staff in all libraries will be able to use this toolkit to implement a variety of Internet web services in order to create real-time distribution channels for ‘scraping’ the web and ‘piping’ hot content from their catalogs and web sites. This session will also introduce the audience to the WSU Arthur Neef Law Library approach to ‘casting’ hot content to its law faculty, law students, and law staff and a step-by-step overview of casting hardware, software and server account set-up followed by a live casting demo will end the session.

SPEAKER: Rita Kohrman, Education Resources Librarian, Grand Valley State University
PROGRAM: There are currently 22 curriculum resource centers (CRCs) supporting education faculty and students in the Michigan academic institutions. Two are very close to opening. These unique centers hold education materials of all formats useful to education students in learning about textbooks, how to use hands-on materials, how to evaluate education software, even planning actual lessons for classes or student teaching. Michigan CRCs vary in sizes from bookcase size to over 9,700 square feet. With the decreasing academic budgets, many of the CRCs are facing difficulties, one forcing to close. Meanwhile, there are education librarians and departmental dreaming of having such a collection for their students. In 2003, ACRL recognized the importance of CRCs by releasing standards and guidelines for these collections. Learn the state of the CRCs and how the librarians and paraprofessionals work with their patrons.

TITLE: Revolutionary Changes in the Out-of-print Book Market: Buying and Selling on the Internet for Libraries
SPEAKER: Dr. Robert Holley, Professor, Library & Information Science Program, Wayne State University
PROGRAM: The Internet has revolutionized the out-of-print book market. Now that any book owner can become a seller on Amazon.com or Half.com, buyers, including libraries, have near instant access to over 6 million titles. While availability is up to around 95% for 19th and 20th century titles, prices are down so that most popular works since 1950 are available for $2.95 or less. Libraries can now easily find retrospective materials to fill in gaps and to serve as an alternative to interlibrary loan. Libraries, especially those with active Friends groups who can list the books and take care of the transaction, can also become sellers and bring in much more money for rejected gifts and discards than the traditional book sale.

PROGRAM: Networked digital information technology is redefining the library’s role in higher education. The role has traditionally been to support the development and transmission of knowledge by serving as the provider of authoritative and trustworthy information. Today, however, with petabytes of information readily available on the World Wide Web, the library is losing its place as the primary provider of information resources. For libraries to continue to play a meaningful role in institutions of higher learning librarians must return to first principles, identify and articulate the critical role that they play in the creation, diffusion and preservation of knowledge. Librarians must recognize and embrace the social nature of continuous learning, and libraries must be conceived as learning environments, providing spaces—both real and virtual—that foster and support the individual learner, as well as learners in every imaginable form of social grouping. We need to envision libraries as a part of a seamless learning infrastructure that stimulates and supports learning for learners of all ages, in all circumstances.

TITLE: Promoting Research Education in Michigan: In-Service Educational Resources (PREMIER) for the New Millennium (Pt. 2)
SPEAKERS: Teague Orblitch, Research Education Coordinator, University of Michigan-Dearborn, Mardigian Library; Carrie Croath-Moore, Reference Librarian, Wayne State University
PROGRAM: The PREMIER project was initiated by the Information Literacy Roundtable as a way to promote the value of research education and contributing to information literacy. In the early years of the project PREMIER volunteers initially worked with professional librarians and their faculty to help create programs that integrated information literacy into the classroom. While PREMIER is always willing to work with libraries to help them integrate information literacy, the project has evolved into promoting our shared experiences as instruction librarians with library and information science students. The project has recently given presentations before library and information science students and have exposed them to practitioners perspectives in the areas of academic, public, and school libraries. Future librarians have also been exposed to new and evolving issues in the profession like virtual instruction as well as information technology. All this and the future of PREMIER will be discussed.

TITLE: ReachOut Reference Service: Wayne State University’s Librarians on Location at Old Main
SPEAKERS: Veronica Bilot, Public Services Librarian, Wayne State University Library System; Karen Liston, Public Services Librarian, Wayne State University Library System; Duryea Callaway, Librarian III/IMLS Project Coordinator, Wayne State University Library System; Nancy Wilmes, Librarian III, Wayne State University Library System;
Library System; Karen Bacsanyi, Public Services Librarian; Karen Bacsanyi, Public Services Librarian, Wayne State University Library System; Lothar Spang, Librarian III, Wayne State University Library System.

PROGRAM: In the Summer of 2005, Wayne State librarians were charged to take reference services outside the traditional library setting itself, to where users regularly learn, study, and work on campus. Space was procured in the Old Main Building, located adjacent to our central campus. Old Main hosts over 600 undergraduate and graduate classes per semester, and is also home to WSU’s Geology, Music and Theatre Departments. Equipped with computers only, this all-electronic reference site has presented unique challenges and opportunities for our users and staff.

Open only during strategic high-traffic hours of the week, the “Librarians on Location at Old Main” service has steadily grown in popularity and use, and has served as an excellent ‘laboratory’ for exploring the issues involved in providing such an outreach service. The six panelists comprise the Librarians on Location Project Committee, responsible for planning, managing, and assessing the effectiveness of this remote reference service. Site location, access, security, equipment, services, staffing, scheduling, marketing and evaluation have all been pivotal factors in its growing success. Presenters will address how to gather data, schedule, draw users in, establish policies, advertise, and apply this experience to future possible scenarios. We hope to share our experiences with other libraries of all types that may be considering a ‘remote reference’ service, and stimulate discussion on the many configurations, methods, and scenarios that are possible.

TITLE: It IS easy being GREEN: Sustainability for Library Buildings
SPEAKERS: Seth Penchansky, AIA is a LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) accredited architect who has specialized in library and sustainable design for 15 years. He is currently a Principal of Penchansky Whisler Architects, and was previously a senior associate at David Milling & Associates. Dale Parus, Director, Harper Woods Public Library.
PROGRAM: A basic introduction to sustainable “green” design and the US Green Building Council’s LEED (Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design) rating system. The program will cover elements of sustainable design that are appropriate to incorporate into the design of Libraries. A case study of the Harper Woods Public Library will show how LEED certification can be accomplished for a Library addition & renovation project without a significant increase in a project budget. The Harper Woods Public Library was submitted to the USGBC in April 2006 and is expected to be the first Public Library in Michigan to be LEED certified. Cost implications of sustainable design and LEED certification will be reviewed and discussed as well as what strategies worked and what didn’t. Several examples of other sustainable projects will be shown.
