

With many libraries still closed or offering limited hours, LinkedIn Learning for Libraries (formerly Lynda.com) provides public library patrons with access to 16,850 online courses in 7 languages.

What does LinkedIn Learning do?

-

Inspires anyone to learn the latest software, creative and business skills.

-

Give users of any skill level bite-size tutorials, or comprehensive courses, on hundreds of topics

-

Encourages personalized and self-paced learning for those looking to gain new skills in their time at home or to re-skill after a layoff.

-

And now offers a new and improved mobile app for those learners on the go.

To take advantage of discount pricing, new subscribers will need to sign up and return order forms by June 1, 2021, for services beginning in mid-June. For details on the program and to subscribe please contact Karen Riggione, Regional Account Executive, State & Local, LinkedIn Learning at kriggione@linkedin.com or call (714) 293-9236.

For questions about MLA membership or member benefits, contact MLA Membership and Communications Director, Rachel Ash at rfash@mlibraries.org.